AWARD NOMINATION FORM: DISTINGUISHED & THE BIEMANN

AWARD FOR A DISTINGUISHED CONTRIBUTION IN MASS SPECTROMETRY recognizes a focused or singular achievement in fundamental or applied mass spectrometry, in contrast to awards that recognize lifetime achievement. Eligibility is restricted to members of ASMS. Nominations may be for an individual or a team. For examples of 'team' past winners, see Past Recipients list here for 2018, 2009, 2002, 1996-1999, and 1993.

Nominations are held for three years. The award is conferred at the ASMS Annual Conference with the presentation of a $10,000 cash award, a recognition plaque, and the award lecture.

THE BIEMANN MEDAL is awarded to an individual early in his or her career in recognition of significant achievement in basic or applied mass spectrometry. Eligibility is restricted to members of ASMS. Nominees must be within first 15 years of receiving the Ph.D. in the year the award is considered. This is a general guideline and exceptions will be considered. Exceptions should be requested in the letter of nomination.

Nominations are held for three years so long as the date of Ph.D. is still within the eligible range. The award is conferred at the ASMS Annual Conference with the presentation of a $5,000 cash award, the Biemann Medal, and the award lecture.
