

Corporate Liaison Committee Responsibilities

The Corporate Liaison Committee consists of eight members. Three of these members are representatives of large corporate member companies (defined as more than 80 company attendees at the annual conference for at least two years) and three members are representatives of small-to-midsize corporate member companies. The seventh and eighth committee members are representatives from the ASMS Board.

The three small-to-midsize representatives are elected on a rotating basis by the corporate member community at an election each year at the conference. There are currently six companies that qualify as large corporate member companies and these three representatives rotate annually.

Term: 2 years commencing July 1 of the year selected, and concluding June 30 of 2nd year
